

Advance OHS

Online Courses Policy

Advance OHS delivers some of its courses online. These courses are part of nationally recognised courses that can be delivered online. In some state jurisdiction, these courses can only be delivered face to face. Student must ensure that the state they are in support the online delivery and our website will clearly indicate which state support online delivery.

These requirements are not part of ASQA but when the course is nationally recognised and delivered in cooperation with other authority within the states such as workcover. All our nationally recognised courses are satisfying the ASQA requirements for delivery and assessments.

Our online assessments are through case study where students required to answer questions.

Security and integrity measures

- Students are automatically timed out after a period of inactivity to ensure that the user doesn't log in and walk away
- All student activity is logged. This includes the student's user name, time logged in and out, time spent online

Students Responsibilities

- Students are to complete assessment themselves.
- It is illegal for anyone other than the student is to complete the assessment.
- Student should sign an affidavit providing his/her details and they are the ones who completed the online course including the assessment.
- Our course materials should not be used for any other activity other than the course for which the student is enrolled.
